Foster’s Food Fair IGA

The beginning and growth of Foster’s Food Fair was built upon the company’s essential tenet that holds true today...service and value for their customers. The retail stores have changed over the years, but this basic concept remains and is practiced daily.

In 1980, Mr. David Foster, already an accomplished and respected businessman in Grand Cayman, identified a community need for a modern supermarket that would provide quality food and a larger inventory, while maintaining low costs. On December 10 that same year, he launched into the grocery business with his mother Alta and brother Steve, opening Foster's Food Fair on Airport Road. The original store was less than 6,000 sq. ft., with a small space designated as a warehouse. Some 25 persons were the first employees.

Today Foster’s Food Fair IGA has expanded to five stores with over 145,000 square feet of retail space and more than 500 employees, proudly serving Grand Cayman from East End to West Bay. As part of their commitment to the community, Foster’s actively participates in projects that offer a range of societal benefits.

Radio Cayman

Radio Cayman is the ‘Community's Station’ and provides extensive coverage of national events. These include the Queen's Birthday Parade in June, Pirates Week Festival activities in October, the Remembrance Day Service in November and other community activities such as rebroadcasting Legislative Assembly proceedings when the House is in session.

The station’s first broadcast occurred during Easter 1976, but the first official broadcast took place months later, on 12 December. Thirty-five years later, it remains one of the Islands' most respected stations.

In the 1980s, Radio Cayman started providing the Cayman Islands with a choice of two services, Radio Cayman One and BreezeFM 89.9 and 105.3FM on Grand Cayman, as well as 91.9 and 93.9FM on Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Radio Cayman provides the country with a 24-hour daily broadcast service, including BBC World Service programming, between midnight and 6:00am on Radio Cayman One and a magical mix of music on BreezeFM. The station also delivers the most extensive and credible local, regional and international newscasts in the Cayman Islands.
